9:15am Opening Keynote Speaker

- Camara Jones, MD, MPH, PhD

Dr. Jones seeks to broaden the national health debate to include universal access to high quality health care and attention to the social determinants of health and equity. She hopes her work will lead to a National Campaign Against Racism.

11:00am Concurrent Sessions

A. Cancer Pain: A Deeper Look into the Experience Across the Continuum of Care

- Sandy VanBrouwer, MSN; Pediatric Pain and Palliative Medicine Helen DeVos Children's Hospital
- Sean Smith, MD; Cancer Rehabilitation Medicine at Michigan Medicine
- Angela Chmielewski, MD; Hospice and Palliative Medicine at Beaumont Hospital Royal Oak

Pain from cancer treatment can affect survivors throughout the treatment continuum. This session will address cancer pain during treatment by exploring the concept of earlier palliative care referrals, chronic pain in survivorship through describing the role of cancer rehabilitation in addressing pain and the importance of pain management in end of life care.

B. Your Role in Increasing HPV Vaccination Rates in Michigan

- Marcus DeGraw, MD; St. John Hospital and Medical Center
- Stephanie Sanchez, Division of Immunization at Michigan Department of Health and Human Services
- Carolyn Johnston, MD; Gynecological Oncology at Michigan Medicine, Rogel Cancer Center
- Cristiane Squarize, DDS, MS, PhD; Periodontics and Oral Medicine at University of Michigan

According to the CDC, over 30,000 people in the US are affected by HPV associated cancers each year. While the HPV vaccine provides safe, effective and lasting protection against HPV infections that most commonly cause cancer, vaccination rates for children in MI are slow to climb. This breakout session will shed light on ways to improve HPV vaccine uptake through policies and systems change at provider offices; examine current MI HPV vaccination rates and related data; and offer a better understanding of why the HPV vaccine is so important for cancer prevention.

Concurrent Sessions (Continued)

C. Using Virtual Care to Address Health Disparities Among Cancer Patients.

- Becky Sanders, MBA; Upper Midwest Telehealth Resource Center
- Marie Lee, M.Ed., PMP; Henry Ford Health System
- GERALYN ROOBOL, LMSW, RN, BS, CMAC; Spectrum Health Cancer Program

Virtual care, also known as telemedicine, is described as the use of technology to overcome barriers that prevent patients from receiving optimal health care. Virtual care is becoming an increasingly popular tool in the care of oncology patients throughout their cancer treatment. This session will explore Michigan's rules and regulations related to virtual care, including how Medicaid and insurance companies reimburse for these services. A panel will address how health systems are implementing virtual care programs, discussing clinic-to-clinic and clinic-to-home programs which provide pre and post treatment access for hard to reach cancer patient populations.
